In this chapter we discuss implications of new knowledge about learning for the design of learning environments, especially schools. Learning theory does not provide a simple recipe for designing effective learning environments; similarly, physics constrains but does not dictate how to build a bridge (e.g., Simon, 1969).

1 Look at data. Some data visualizations are better than others. This chapter discusses why that is. While it is tempting to simply start laying down the law about what works and what doesn't, the process of making a really good or really useful graph cannot be boiled down to a list of simple rules to be followed without exception in all circumstances.
